COURT PROCEEDINGS,

Judge of Terry of Tunkhannock, Presiding in Common Pleas.

JUDGE FANNING WAS ILL.

Interesting Case from Overton Had to Be Postponed—List of Common Pleas Cases—Gentlemen of the Jury—Some Verdicts Rendered.

Owing to Judge Fanning's illness, court was adjourned for the week on Friday at the close of the session of that day. At that time the much discussed "Overton case" had not been finished.

Judge Fanning was somewhat improved Sunday, but his physician has forbidden him to work this week. Judge Charles E. Terry of Tunkhannock, president judge of the Wyoming-Sullivan district, has been secured and took up the work Monday.

The following are the gentlemen of the jury to hear the evidence.

Disgusting Case.

The handsome Bradford county court house was crowded all day on Thursday with witnesses and others while the sensational details of several cases were drawn out by the contending attorneys. The trial of Abe Campbell, the Litchfield man, arrested at the instance of one Green, a neighbor, was especially rich in accusations and testimony which should never have been bandied about the halls of a county court.

Late in the afternoon the jury returned verdicts on the several counts upon which Campbell was arrested as follows: Fornication, guilty, abduction and larceny, not guilty, and the costs were divided.

Rose Goodale, charged with being a common seold, was fined $10, costs, and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail.

The trial of Robert Wood, concluded late Tuesday afternoon, produced an amazing amount of contradictory evidence, and drew from one of the trial lawyers the statement that it looked as if there had been such a strenuous time at Wyalusing upon the occasion in question that none of the witnesses were very clear as to what really took place. Wood was arrested for having assaulted and interfered with an officer in the discharge of his duty. The arrest was made while a general fight was in progress in front of a hotel in the village and the evidence at some points was of the primitive age order. The jury found the defendant not guilty, and divided the costs between the defendant and prosecutor, Constable Overton.

Frank Bailey, charged with assault and battery, was fined $10, and costs.

Common Pleas.

The first day's session of the present term of the court of common pleas, with Judge Charles T. Terry of Tunkhanock, presiding, disposed of a number of cases as follows:

No. 1 on the calender, M. J. Long, surv., vs. Hannah C. Simmins, was non suited; No. 2, C. E. Wheaton vs. Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance company of Tuscarora, was continued until today.

In the following cases satisfactory settlements were effected: Great Eastern Oil and Gas company vs. C. F. Heverly; Great Eastern Oil and Gas company vs. A. C. Campbell; Great Eastern Oil and Gas company against S. D. Hoagland; Great Eastern Oil and Gas company vs. M. L. McMahon.

Court Matters.

Tuesday's session of the court of common pleas was entirely taken up with arguments in the case of C. E. Wheaton vs. the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance company of Tuscarora, which was continued from Monday. Attorneys J. N. Califf and C. M. Culver are representing the plaintiff and William Maxwell the defendants. Among the rulings made public are in the suit of Pierce and Bickford, the Elmira architects against John R. Kasper and Alex Stevens, garninshees of J. W. Richardson; rule on the plaintiff to show cause of action and why a foreign attachment should not be dissolved.

FLOODING THE STATE WITH BAD BOOZE.

Chemists Unearth Widespread Plan to Spoil Good Liquor.

Dr. B. H. Warren, State Pure Food commissioner, has been obliged to forego his search after those who adulterate liquors and beer for the reason that the supreme court has decided that liquors do not come under the pure food act. During the time Commissioner Warren was enforcing the act as applicable to liquors and beer he paid into the state treasury thousands of dollars, having prosecuted hundreds of people who were selling impure liquor, and he had almost driven the spurious stuff from the state when the supreme court ended his labors in that direction by declaring the law did not apply to liquors. In other words the court said that beer and liquor were not foods, although some of the beer people advertise their wares as "health food."

As a consequence of the stoppage of the raid on the adulterated liquor sellers the state is again flooded with adulterated whiskies, brandies and wines, according to Dr. Charles H. Lawall, one of the chemists of the pure food department.

Private parties have purchased and had analyzed several hundreds of samples of liquors, including whiskey, brandy, port wine, sherry wine, blackberry brandy, Catawba wine, ale and beer, and found them to be adulterated with wood alcohol, sulphur dioxide, salicylic acid, bead oil, benzoic acid, artificial ethers, fuse oil, coal tar dyes and saccharin, and the stuff is sold all over Pennsylvania, the result being, it is said, an access of disease and insanity that is increasing daily.

STATE FAIR AT BETHLEHEM.

Ten Thousand Children Admitted Free on First Day.

Under blue skies and favorable circumstances the Pennsylvania State fair opened its sixteenth annual exhibition at Bethlehem last week. It was children's day and every child in Northampton and Lehigh counties who came was admitted to the fair free.

There were within the fair enclosure perhaps 10,000 bright-eyed youngsters and they made the welkin ring with their merry shouts of laughter at the many amusing shows on the pike. On this thoroughfare the shows are of such a nature as not to offend the most fastidious. In the various buildings the exhibits rival those of former years both in number and variety.

UNIQUE DINNER PARTY,

Fifteen Octogenarians Entertained at North Orwell.

STORY OF PIONEER DAYS.

Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Moore Were the Hosts at a Most Enjoyable Gathering of Old People, Whose Combined Ages Were 1230 Years.

"Eighty years here, and a steadfast hope for the better home beyond," was the slogan at the "Old People's Dinner," given by Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Moore, Saturday, Sept. 8, at their residence at Sunshine Farm, North Orwil. The guests were: Rev. J. H. Green, age 83; J. W. Robinson, age 84; Mrs. Fanny Nurse, age 80; Mrs. Katherine Shelton, age 80; Philetus Cass, age 83; Mrs. Philetus Cass, age 83; William Whie, 84; Mrs. William White, 80; Mrs. Teressa Baxter, 79; John Hill, 84; Mrs. Aurelia Brown, 83; Mrs. Eliza McKee Lent, 80; Mrs. Abbie Jane Snyder, 80; Mrs. Eliza Higgins, 90, and Mrs. Matilda Morey, 80.

There were 15 in number, thus making a combined age of 1230 years, or an average of 82 years. All of the guests present, and 12 other octogenarians who were unable to attend, owing to infirmities and a family reunion, live within a radius of four miles from Capt. Moore's residence. The total number, 27, speaks well for the healthfulness of Old Bradford. As many of the old people had to be assisted, the number of sympathetic friends and relatives present swelled the total to more than a house full, but as the day was ideal, and Sunshine Farm has many acres in it, there was room for all.

The younger people laughed with glee, but many eyes were wet with tears as they observed how the dimmed eyes of their grandparents brightened; how the tottering steps became firmer, as "the boys and girls of years ago" greeted each other and talked of the old time apple-cuts, the husking bees and the social gatherings that they had attended when they were young.

At the proper time all wer summoned to an old-fashioned dinner which was prepared by Mrs. Moore. Any one who has ever sat at her table can testify to her ability to cook. The dinner was served in courses to represent the customs of the country from the childhood days to the present. And be it said to Mrs. Moore's credit, up to this time there has not been any cases of sickness reported among the old or young who parttok of that feast.

To Mrs. Hetty LeVan, Mrs. Moore's mother, 73 years of age, is due the credit of many of the old-fashioned dishes which were served. Mrs. LeVan baked the rye bread and pumpkin pies, "the same as grandomther made then."

After dinner all assembled in the parlor, where Rev. J. H. Green, acting as master of ceremonies, gave an appropriate address on their lives and their hopes for the world beyond. Philetus Cass sang several of his old time songs. As the conversation passed around the circle, each related some incident of long gone by days. Miss Helen Moore sang some of her best songs, much to the delight of the listeners. Miss Jennie Moore rendered several appropriate selections. Many of the anecdotes would be very interesting reading, but the writer will relate but one. John Hill, in speaking of the diffrence between the experiences of the boys of today and of the boys of 75 years ago, related the following:

At one time when he was a young boy, nearly the whole family became sick. Having no flour in the house, and the sick not able to eat corn bread and pork, which constituted their entire bill of fare, his father directed him to take the oxen and sled and go over to Daniel Doane's and borrow his lumber wagon (it being the only one in these parts) and go up near Seth Doane's saw mill where he was to leave the wagon, borrow another sled and draw pine boards from the mill to the main road. After loading the lumber on the wagon he hauled it to Mr. Barstow's at Nichols and sold it for flour. At that time money was unknown among the settlers. Pine panel lumber and long pine shingles were the medium of exchange. The rule of the Barstow store was "give flour only for one-half of the value of lumber, and the balance in other trade." But owing to the pleadings of the small boy and his pitiful story of sickness at home, Mr. Barstow relented and gave Mr. Hill 60 pounds of flour in payment for his whole load of lumber. The flour was quickly loaded on the wagon and the homeward journey begun. After the wagon had been returned the boy with his precious 60 pounds of flour loaded on his own sled continued the homeward journey. Although night came on the faithful oxen stuck to the trail which led across creeks and swamps. Occassionally the roller would pull out, then the boy would have to back the oxen and put the roller into place before proceeding. Both oxen and the boy were hungry, but the lone howl of the distant wolf kept them spurred to prompt action. Once the boy lost his mittens while fixing the roller, and owing to the darkness he was unable to find them. Thus the homeward journey was vigorously pursued until, while crossing the farm now owned by Capt. Moore, the roller came partly out and the sled shied against a tree and before the oxen could be stopped, the sled was pulled in two. Mr. Hill then tried to place the sack of flour on the back of one of the oxen. Not being strong enough to lift the 60 pounds, he placed the flour against a tree and drove the oxen home. Then he and his brother returned carrying a tallow candle lantern, and a trusty flint lock gun, as a double precaution they were accompanied by the faithful family dog in case of an attack from wolves.

After procuring a pole and ticing the flour to it, they suspended it on their shoulders. Then the two boys with the coveted flour, the lantern, the flint lock and the dog, began the homeward march. Soon after their return, the loving mother had biscuits in the oven, and before the sun arose the next morning the sick had been treated to a dainty meal of some biscuits made of real wheat flour.

Mr. Hill had traveled more than 30 miles and delivered a load of paneled pine lumber to get 60 pounds of flour. Today the same amount of lumber would but buy more flour than a team of oxen could haul.

This was only one of the many object lessons given of the strenuous times in those sturdy days when they reared boys who have been the staunch men of the community, and have assisted in the molding of the society of Windham township, which today justly boasts of the fact that it has been 30 years since there has been a criminal suit in court, and 26 years since there has been a civil suit in court from Windham township. This speaks for honorable, upright character of the citizens of that community.

After passing several hours in old time reminescences and other entertainment, Prof. Crispell arranged the old people in a group and photographed the silver locks which had once been glossy. Mr. Artist, kindly pencil out the wrinkles and furrows on the cheeks which were once rosy, brighten the dim eye which once sparkled as the dew drop in the sunlight, tint the faded lip which was once cherried, straighten the bent form which once stood erect in the prime of manhood or womanhood, but if you fail, do not be disheartened, for there will be one grand reunion not far distant for this group and when their feet shall stand firm on the Rock the step will be elastic, the eye bright, the voice clear, the ear acute, and the face radiant with happiness at the glad welcome and joyful greeting of the Good Shepard who has led them all the way.

GIRLS NOT GOOD COOKS, SAYS TEACHER.

Dr. McFarlane, in Address to Pennsylvania Teachers, is Interesting.

"It has often been stated by Charles M. Schwab and other men like him, that the boy taken off the gutter makes a better business man and citizen than the college graduate but if there were any truth in those statements then the people of America would not leave one stone on top of another in any high school of the land.'

So declared Dr. C. T. McFarlane, of Brockport, N. Y., in his address at the fourth session of the Teachers' Institute at the Harrisburg High school.

Dr .McFarlane's talk was on "The Course of Study" and in continuing he said that he could make some very strong answers to the statement once made by Schwab. "I will say, however,' he said, "that the urchin taken from the street may turn out as superb a work as the college man or High school graduate but after he goes home his mind is a blank as he has never been taught the more uplifting courses of study such as music and drawing and accordingly he does not stay at home but goes to the corner saloon and in the end is left a drunkard and a loafer."

"The child that has had the advantage of passing through school has absorbed much of the purity and sweetness of the school room and so leads a purer and better life. Music and singing all tend towards turning out a man an efficient workingman and the children in our public schools today have gathered all of the truth and the best things in life out of them."

The speaker then told about the gilrs of the present day being less adept in the art of cooking than their mothers and the latter being slighly less adept than their mothers. He said this was an undisputed fact and greatly lamented it and could see no reason why cooking should be slowly becoming a lost art among our women.

RAILROADS MERGED,

MOVING TOWARD PITTSBURG.

The Pittsburg, Binghamton and Eastern, the Tioga and Clinton and the Susquehanna Central Consolidated —Stockholders Met in Towanda.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Pittsburg, Binghamton and Eastern Railroad company was held Tuesday afternoon in the general offices of the company, in Towanda, for the purpose of voting upon and ratifying the merger of the P., B. and E, the Tioga and Clinton, and the Susquehanna Central Railway companies. The merger was ratified.

Beside the resident stockholders there were present President F. A. Sawyer of the P., B. and E., Hon. Elliot F. Norton and J. T. Odell of New York city, Attorney Storey of Boston, Attorney Whitcomb of Ridgeway, Hon. C. Fred Wright of Susquehanna, Daniel Innes, L. T. McFadden and H. L. Clark of Canton, Superintendent Ferris and other officials of the P., B. and E.

The Merged Roads.

The roads merged by the vote at this meeting are the P., B. and E., surveyed from Binghamton, N. Y., to a point in Tioga county, and a large section of which between Powell and Canton in this county, is now under construction, the Tioga and Clinton and the Susquehanna Central. The Tioga & Clinton road, capitalized at $300,000, extends from a point of connection with the Arnot and Pine Creek railroad at a point 500 feet South of the passenger station in the village of Morris, Tioga county, to a point on the South side of the Susquehanna river, 2,000 feet West from the passenger station in the village of Hyner, Clinton county. The directors are six citizens of Lock Haven and two Philadelphia men.

The Susquehanna Central Railway company is capitalized at $1,000,000. James K. Gardner of Ridgeway, is president, and the board of nine directors are Ridgeway citizens. The principal block of shares, 5,000, is subscribed by E. Howard Foster of New York city. This road extends from a point of connection with the Clearfield and Mahoning railway in the borough of Clearfield, to a connection with the Philadelphia and Erie railroad near that company's bridge across the Susquehanna river in the village of Queens Run in Allison township, Clinton county. This line is about 100 miles in length and runs through the counties of Clearfield, Center and Clinton.

TOBACCO NEARLY HARVESTED.

This Year's Crop Is a Good One as Regards Quantity and Quality.

The local tobacco growers are not feeling bad. The crop this year is all right both as to the amount raised and the quality of the weed. A few small pieces are still out, but most of the growers have their stuff in the shed and are thanking kind Providence that the little, sudden, nasty, black cloud that means hail did not show up.

The last two or three weeks have been busy ones with them, and the buyers from Elmira, Binghamton, Corning and other places have already been around and contracted for the output at satisfactory prices. The figures realized average from 12½ to 15 cents per pound. There are probaly 75 or 80 acres between Towanda and Monroeton, and the crop that comes from these creek flats is generally of a superior quality.

Considerable is raised up the creek beyond Monroeton. Early in the season a light hail storm cut a few patches in the vicinity of Hagerman's Mills, but it was at a time of the season when resetting was entirely practical.

Lycoming Eagle Biggest Ever.

A picture of the young bald eagle which was sent a few days ago by the Game Warden Riley, of Muncy, to the game commissioner at Harrisburg, and forwarded by Secretary Kalbfus to the Philadelphia zoological garden, appeared in the Philadelphia North American. It is a fierce looking bird, and is said by the Philadelphia paper to be a two years old and one of the finest specimens ever brought to the "zoo." The bird measures seven feet four inches from wing-tip to wing-tip, and if he keeps on growing will develop into a splendid adult specimen. It develops now that the bird was not shot by the Muncy farmer while it was attacking a wild turkey, but that the farmer, when he first saw the big bird, thought it was a wild turkey.. The eagle is said to be the largest ever captured alive, and the North American says he is taking captivity philosophically.

THE PENNSYLVANIA G. A. R. REMEMBERED J. A. WILT.

Handsome Recognition of His Service as Depatment Commander.

Past Department Commander J. Andrew Wilt was Wednesday, Sept. 5, the recipient of a handsome and valuable chest of silver, a testimonial from the 24,000 members of the Grand Army of the Republic in Pennsylvania to his worth as a member of the order and his services as department commander for the year ending in last June. A special meeting of Watkins Post, No. 68, of which Mr. Wilt has been the adjutant for many years, was the occasion of the presentation, which was made by Past Department Commander Charles T. Hull of Athens, who was chairman of the committee named by the state encampment at Altoona. Assistant Adjutant-general Charles A. Suydam of Philadelphia, a member of the committee, was also present and assisted.

The gift is a beautiful collection of 124 pieces of solid silver enclosed in a case of rosewood. Each piece bears the initials "J. A. W."

The members of the Post and their wives and a few friends were present. There was singing of army songs, brief addresses by Adjutant Suydam, the presentation speech by Mr. Hull, Mr. Wilt's heartfelt acceptance and thanks, and cheering talks by Hon. E. M. Tuton, who was Mr. Wilt's chief of staff, Colonel E. J. Ayers and others. Altogether it was a jolly, informal gathering where good fellowship was predominant. Coffee and sandwiches were served.

At the encampent at Altoona last June Mr. Wilt was presented a handsome gold watch and chain by his official staff. Both gifts are simply testimonials to the splendid work he did for the G. A. R. during his year as department commander of Pennsylvania.

Savage Wildcats in Lackawanna.

Wildcats are attacking the residents of Spring Brook township, Lackawanna county. Many of the settlers gain a livelihood from trapping and fishing, and formerly made an addition to their income by bounties received from killing foxes and wildcats. This bounty custom has been discontinued by the county commissioners and the savage animals have been allowed to over run mountain sides. A large and fierce wildcat attacked Sam Turner, a farmer, the other day, and he was severely bitten before he could kill the animal.

Mr. Stuart Returns to Troy.

Andrew J. Stuart, formerly for many years of this borough but for some time back of Wilkes-Barre, has purchased the Weigester drug store and building and took possession on Monday. Mr. Stuart is a thoroughly competent pharmacist and his host of friends are more than pleased over his return with his family to Troy. They will make their home for the present with Mr. Stpart's mother on Main street.—Troy Gazette-Register.

The optimist is rather inclined to emphasize the fact that good as well as bad qualities and traits may be transmitted from parent to offspring.

Every worm's nest in the orchard should be cut from the trees and burned before the worms mature, scatter and spin their cocoons. It is a case of a stitch in time saves nine.

Skunks, minks and desreputable bipeds are the chief enemies of the poultry raiser, and experience is likely to convince him that a well loaded shotgun is the best weapon to use in all three cases.

The farsighted and considerate parent will put himself to much inconvenience to keep his boy or girl in school. Schooling must be got at the proper age, else once neglected it is a lack that is seldom made up.

We have found the nasturtium to be one of the most satisfactory of the garden flowers, producting an abundance of many colored blossoms, while both plant and flowers are remarkably free from the attacks of blight and insect pests.

A prominent citizen of Wilmington, Del., was recently saved from death from the attack of an enraged bull by his twelve-year-old son, who flashed the reflection from a new milk pail in the animal's eyes, thus putting him to flight, when pitchfork, clubs and shotgun had been of no avail.

Indiana has a fertilizer law which is aimed to protect the farmers and gardeners within her borders. It provides that fertilizers offered for sale shall not only bear the inspection label of the state chemist, but shall give the percentages of the ingredients which they contain, so that the purchaser may tell at a glance what he is buying.

A poultryman we know is just now having a force of men finish up a henhouse of cement blocks. The walls contain a dead air space, which is a guarantee that it will be proof against the cold and wind of the winter months. Proper food and exercise, coupled with quarters of the kind described, will insure an all winter's supply of eggs.

Careful tests which have been made seem to indicate that silage properly secured is just as valuable a ration for the steers in the feed lot as it is for the dairy cows. Increase in the price of land, coupled with the application of a greater measure of intelligence to agricultural matters, is going to make the silo a necessity through the entire corn belt.

A friend of the writer this year reports that he picked raspberries of the Columbia variety during a season of five and a half weeks, and the last berries, which we happened to see, were the finest of all, being borne on vines of this year's growth. About the only drawback with this valuable variety is likelihood to damage by hard winters and stiffness of stalks, which makes the matter of covering somewhat difficult.

A suggestion which has been made by a number of experiment stations and one that will at least be seconded by the stations of all states is that agriculturists should send samples of noxious weeds to their respective state experiment stations with a view to securing a scientific and reliable analysis of them and such suggestions as will prove helpful in their destruction. The state officials in charge of this line of work are always ready and willing to render assistance to residents of the state in the manner indicated.

The law requiring the cutting of weeds along public highways between Aug. 1 and 15, in force in some states, would seem to put the time for the doing of this work just about two weeks late, as our observation leads us to believe that the time mentioned finds the common weeds along the roadside pretty well headed out and far enough advanced so that if cut most of the weed seed is ripe enough to reseed the ground. It would be vastly better if two cuttings were required, one about the middle of July and one early in September. This would nip most of the weeds in the bud and be much more effective in killing them out.

A recent bulletin issued by the Iowa experiment station on the subject of alfalfa culture condenses the good points of this valuable legume as follows: It yields from two to three times as much as clover and timothy and is at the same time a more valuable hay. It is rich in protein. For hog pasture alfalfa has no equal. It is superior to any other crop for enriching the soil. Alfalfa fed in conjunction with corn will make most economical gains. The bulletin further states that the growing of alfalfa is entirely feasible for the north half of the corn belt and even more northerly latitudes, provided proper care is exercised in the matter of getting it started. Interest in growing alfalfa is bound to increase as its merits become better known.

SAVING THE CORN FODDER.

While the selling price of hay has in the past, as a rule, largely determined the value of corn fodder, the time is at hand when, regardless of the price of hay, such a system of handling the corn crop should be adopted as will put an end to the enormous waste which is annually witnessed in practically all of the corn belt west of the Mississippi river. A more careful and sensible handling of the stalk and leaves of this important cereal plant will mean the addition of many acres to the farm area. The hitherto wasteful methods which have prevailed in this respect have without doubt been due to the existence of large farms, relatively cheap land and that system of handling the crops which marketed the products of the soil in the shape of the grain itself rather than in the more condensed form of butter, pork and beef. However, with land values steadily increasing and more and more time being devoted to dairying and stock raising, a condition has arisen which practically compels more thrift and care in the handling of this most important farm crop

The best farm homes and the happiest families are not always to be found where the most money is spent. It takes something besides money to make a home. It takes congeniality, cooperation and a willingness to make the best of things.

Twenty-five years ago a two horse team was used for doing all the heavy farm work, while today the same work, and much besides, is done by a heavy team of three draft horses, and the work is done much more advantageously, also resulting in less wear and tear upon the team.

The hired man who kills his employer's time is just as dishonest as the man who steals his property, as he is getting money under false pretenses, and in so doing is a fraud and swindler. This is a line along which a good many people need education as to what constitutes common business honesty and morality.

A new industry has originated in the western part of France in the form of extracting the casein from skim milk. This casein is then exported to Germany, where it is manufactured into high toned paper, playing cards and other things. It forms a good substitute for celluloid and does not possess the same explosive qualities.

A farmer living near Fort Scott, Kan., desirous of providing a bunch of his hogs with a much needed tonic, gave them a stiff dose of strychnine, with the result that he next day hauled sixteen of them out for fertilizer. This fellow would seem to belong to much the same class as another granger we read of recently who shipped sticks of dynamite by express and labeled them files.

The fact that a little three-year-old lad in an Iowa county not far from where the writer lives climbed to the top of a fifty foot windmill tower the other day is not mentioned here with a view to persuading the reader that Iowa people are especially athletic, but rather with a view to pointing the necessity of so fixing things that the little folks cannot begin the climb at the bottom of the ladder.

The keeping of a careful book account of the farm receipts and expenditures for the period of a year, including the classifying of the various items of expense, would bring many a farmer to the point of inaugurating reforms along several lines, the adoption of more up to date methods, the keeping of better stock and an elimination of a good many sources of previously unappreciated leak and waste.

One of the largest canning concerns of the Mississippi valley is located at Keokuk, Ia. On the outskirts of this city the company has a tomato patch covering 200 acres, said to be the largest of its kind in the world. The varieties planted are the New Stone and Greater Baltimore. The plants are started in hotbeds and cold frames and are set out with an automatic planter in rows six feet apart and four feet apart in the rows. Three hundred and fifty thousand plants are required to set the area mentioned, and were they all put in a straight line they would make a row 100 miles long.

If enthusiasm and optimism stand for anything in a commercial way it is not to be wondered at that the real estate men rake in the shekels, for of all men who have a bargain to make they beat the limit. They become so steeped in the good qualities of what they have to offer that they simply overwhelm the prospective buyer and he toddles right up to the mark and invests. These qualities, like other good things, are without a doubt abused, but there is no gainsaying that they have a convincing power. If you have a sour, grumpy, see-no-good-in-anything disposition, better steer clear of anything along the soliciting line, whether you live in town or the country. The world won't listen to you. Go home and cultivate some enthusiasm.

A move on the part of the animal husbandry department of the federal agricultural bureau which will be of especial interest to all breeders of fine horses has in view a perpetuation of the strain of Morgan horses, which in years gone by have had a merited reputation the country over of being one of the best all around general purpose breeds in America. With a view to carrying out its purpose the department sent a committee of experts to Kentucky, where some of the very finest types of the Morgan family were purchased and taken to Burlington, Vt., where for the present at least the government stud will be located. This is mentioned as merely one of a multitude of ways in which the department of agriculture is proving of practical and very definite value to the live stock interests of the country.

There is mighty little difference in the high strung city bred horse in meeting a thrashing machine outfit and in the staid farm horse upon encountering a "devil wagon." It is the same old thing under a different guise.

Lime sprinkled in the farm water tank is said to prevent scum rising on the surface of the water. Later, should the scum begin to rise, it is an indication that the lime is losing its strength, and more should be added after washing the tank out.

CANNING OF SWEET CORN.

A recent ride of a hundred miles through the territory south of where the writer lives showed numerous sweet corn canning factories just beginning their annual campaign. Many of these canneries have a capacity of two or three million cans in a period of six weeks; hence one can imagine that they are busy places when going at full blast. A factory of medium capacity will take the product of between 600 and 800 acres. The corn is snapped in the fields, which are not usually over twenty acres in size, and taken in as large loads as the team can carry to the factory, where a force of people is engaged in husking the green ears and ridding them of the silks. In some of the factories even the husking is done by machinery. From this point on all the work possible is done by machinery. The husks are run through an elevator, the refuse being carried off by the farmers furnishing the corn, who find it is eagerly eaten by the farm animals and particularly if there is a shortage of other green food.

DRY FARMING.

The Campbell system of dry farming, which was first tried in the semi-arid portions of North Dakota and about which much has appeared in newspapers and magazines within the past year or two, is doing great things for many portions of the western states, where with a rainfall of but ten or twelve inches per annum bumper crops of corn, wheat, beats and other crops can be grown. This system of crop culture is based on the conservation of practically all of the moisture in the soil through a dust or surface mulch, and under it as high as forty bushels of corn to the acre have been grown in North Dakota, fifty bushels of wheat per acre in western Nebraska, while better than twenty tons of beets have been produced in Colorado. While this method of crop culture has little value in those portions of the country where there is an abundant rainfall, it does have a tremendous import in all territory where there is fertility in the soil, but an annual rainfall of less than twenty inches.

AIDS THE FARMERS.

As showing still another service which the department of agriculture has rendered to the business interests of the country, we note in a recent bulletin that, solely due to the introduction of better methods of collecting turpentine, there has been an increase of 40 per cent in the output, amounting to $7,000,000, while the long leaf pine forests of the southern states, from which the American supply of turpentine is largely obtained, have at the same time been saved from annihilation. The cost to the department of the service rendered in this instance was $14,000. This is one of many cases which go to prove that of all the money that is being expended by the federal government in any of its departments there is none which is fetching a larger return on the investment than that disbursed by the department of agriculture. For this reason pressure should be brought to bear on our congressmen to make appropriations for this branch of the government work as generous as possible.

VENTILATION OF BARNS.

One of the great defects these days in all large barns and many small ones which are built is the lack of good ventilating facilities. This is partly due to ignorance and partly to indifference and partly to lack of good planning. This question is claiming the attention of some of the best architects of the day. No matter how well a barn may be equipped or how perfect the sanitary conditions, it will not be a success until ventilation is under proper control. Many of the largest barns are built with the express purpose of raising blooded stock, and the prevalence of tuberculosis among the herds is thought in many cases to originate from bad air.

A CORN SUCKER TEST.

Experiments conducted by the Nebraska experiment station furnish interesting data relative to the tendency of corn to sucker. It was found that where there was but one stalk to the hill there were fifteen suckers July 12 in every 100 hills and 195 on Oct. 1. With three stalks in the hill there were eighty-six on the former date out of the same number of hills and forty-five at the latter date. With five stalks there were fifty-seven suckers at the time of first inspection and only three out of 100 hills in October. Where the stand of corn was light, it was found that the yield was increased seventeen bushels per acre on suckers alone.

Fireman's Invention Brings Fortune.

Escanaba, Mich., Sept. 11.—A struggle for years against poverty and to combat enemies who sought to steal his secret had its reward when James Devlin, a Northwestern road fireman, working for a salary of $60 a month, became practically a millionaire by the sale of a patent for a reversible rotary steam turbine engine. The patent was sold to steamship companies for $975,000.

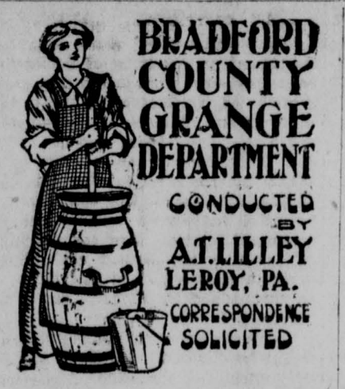
STICKLEY-BRANDT CO. FURNITURE

BINGHAMTON, NEW YORK.



A brother form Smithfield whose name I have forgotten, says he is having fine success with alfalfa, having cut at the rate of about ten tons of green fodder per acre. Brother J. R. Vannoy thinks he can beat it with common red clover. Although the oat crop was suffering to be sheltered there were more than 500 farmers at the grange picnic at Mountain Lake. All of the speakers were listened to with marked attention. C. E. Gladding, one of the first instructed masters of upwards of 32 years ago was present. We remember him as a delegate to aid in forming the Bradford county council 32 years ago. He is still an active member of Columbia grange.

The most noticeable feature of the picnic was the combination in social intercourse, of members of all political parties of the county, who seemed to join with each other in making the meeting an object lesson of the possibilities of farmers working together for the common good of all. Every true patron seemed fixed in the determination that partisan politics should be left at the outer gate. A continuance in this course will prove one of the strongest bulwarks of the order. It has been said that a net cast into the sea brings forth of every kind, but on this occasion the grange net brought to the surface only of the kind that belongs to an agricultural family caring for its own. Farmers know that at this day and age of the world there are parasites inhabiting every living thing so it would not seem at all strange if some good patron did get at least a glimpse of a few small ones, but it will not be necessary to send to the state zoologist for a remedy.

On the third inst., with Mrs A. T. Lilley, we spent a pleasant half day at the Bradford County museum, labeling geological specimens. While there we enjoyed a hearty meal in the log house, reminding us of the one we lived in 60 years ago. The old fire place with its crane and kettles, the bake oven, iron candlesticks, tin lantern, the old straw beehive, ox shoes, iron gauge for tapping sugar trees, together with many other utensils of boyhood days, gave an appetite not soon satisfied. We are pleased to see the additions being made to the collections of our county's museum. During the half day's visit Indian relics from Frenchtown were brought in. To those were added moss from the mammoth trees of Washington. Some fine fossils from Michigan, minerals from Colorado, a variety of pebbles from Dakota and some fine minerals from Washington. All of the above were brought in by Miss Bacon of Frenchtown, who is about to locate at Ann Arbor, Mich. Every member of the grange in Bradford county ought to be interested in our county's museum and aid in making it what it ought to be, a collection of object lessons for the young and the aged people. Much good work has been done, more is being done and there is a fine opportunity for much more to be done. There are many people in the county who have specimens of curios, geological specimens and many things of an early day that they would be willing to donate to the museum and the workers in the society would be pleased to have them for exhibition. A little help given by each of many persons would make a grand addition to what we already have.

Worthy Pomona Master C. P. Shaw, says: "Columbia grange was represented at the Pomona picnic by a delegation of 27. Worthy Master Canfield, Dummer Sweet and their wives went on Thursday and returned Saturday. They rented a cottage during their stay, which made headquarters for our members. All reported a good time. Columbia grange has through a building committee, composed of Brothers Finley, Furman, Ross, Soper, and your humble scribe, ordered the enlargement of their building 20x38 feet, which will provide for a juvenile room 12x20 feet, kitchen extension 12x20, and an extension to our grange room in upper story and dining hall below 20x26 in each room, besides the trustees are planing and have most of the material on the ground for new shed to accommodate teams. We are taking in a few new members nearly every week."

This grange reported 414 members a month ago and then had the most commodious grange hall in this county, but still the watchword is "progress."

Brother Louis Piollet reports a large picnic under the auspices of Eastern Bradford grange of LeRaysville, a short time ago. The speakers were State Chaplain J. W. Johnson of Wyoming county, and Hon. Louis Piollet.

The Pomona grange of Tioga county, is doing a good work in the interesting field of zoology, and we see no good reason why the patrons of Bradford county cannot do as well. Every farmer is certainly interesed in this subject whether he knows it or not. At the last session of the State grange a resolution was passed authorizing the state master to appoint a zoological committee to consist of one member in each county of the state, to assist the state zoologist in making collections. The Pomona of Tioga has a committee of three engaged in this work and it would seem to be a proper thing for the master of Pomona No. 23 to form an active committee for our Pomona district. Much good might come from such action. If done this season it should be done at once.

ALWAYS TELL YOUR WIFE.

Then She Won't Do What Mrs. Bennett Did With Money.

Through the lively efforts of Guy Hollon of this place, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Bennett of Overton, will recover $87.37, which was a sum of money rolled up and hidden by Mr. Bennett in a pile of old clothes and rags, which in her husband's absence, Mrs. Bennett sold to a traveling junk dealer. The junk dealer went to New Albany, where he sold his goods to a sort of jobber in this class of trade, and the jobber in turn shipped the valuable bundle to another dealer in Elmira.

All were in ignorance of the value of the old rags, but when Mr. Bennett came home to Overton and heard what his thrifty spouse had been up to, his state of mind was not the most angelic. A family council resulted in a communication with Detective Hollon. When the Towanda sleuth had learned the particulars he flew, post haste, for Sayre, and there, after a search, the bundle was found reposing in a freight car in the Milltown yards, the money undisturbed.

Have cured women here in Towanda.

Mrs. G. G. Stevens, living at Macedonia, four miles from Towanda, says: "I have been troubled more or less from kidney complaint ever since I was a small girl, but never doctored directly for my kidneys until recently. I have suffered more during the past year than ever before. I had terrible cramps across the small of my back, especially in the morning, though they also bothered me during the day and I often felt like giving up. One of my neighbors who had used Doan's Kidney Pills with wonderful results spoke so highly of them that I was induced to buy a box at E. F. Kester's drug store, 505 Main street, Towanda. It gave me so much relief that I got a second and third box, but before I had finished the third box the terrible cramps across the small of my back disappeared and I have not been troubled since to amount to anything. I wished I had used Doan's Kidney Pills long ago. They would have saved me a great deal of suffering."

Dr. J. M. Wainwright is secretary of the society which conducts the Consumptive hospital on West Mountain, near the city, and is one of the principal figures in the work of endeavoring to stamp out the terrible disease.

"It is estimated that in Scranton, from 125 to 150 people die of consumption every year. There are in that city upwards of 400 people who have consumption in an active stage, and many more in whom it is latent.

"Nearly all this sickness, suffering and death is unnecessary, and a large part of it could be prevented if the society which has been fighting this disease could have money enough to run its sanitarium at the capacity that is needed, and if it had the money to do the necessary visiting nurse and dispensary work in the city."

Of these 400 many have well advanced cases which are a menace to those with whom they come in contact because they cannot afford to go to sanitariums. Others are less dangerously afflicted, but suffering from the trouble in its incipient stages, a condition which can be altogether cured with prompt and proper treatment.

Had Camp Dinner.

Contractor Holbrook, of the firm of Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins, who are doing the construction work at Powell on the P., B. and E. railroad, entertained the directors and a few Towanda friends at an elaborate camp luncheon Tuesday noon. The directors and other officials drove over from Canton in automobiles and were met at Powell by the Towanda gentlemen. President Sawyer expressed himself at the luncheon as being in high spirits over the progress made and the satisfactory way in which things were turning out in the affairs of the corporation.

450 Teachers; 20,000 Scholars.

The public schools of Scranton opened on Monday. The importance of the work of popular education in that city is shown by the fact that it employed nearly 450 teachers and that the number of pupils this year will not fall far short of 20,000. To facilitate the work of education the city has 42 school buildings and ten annexes.

TOWANDA, PA., SEPT. 13, 1906.

Both parties, Democratic and Republican are split wide open in New York state.

In these piping times of peace a dictionary gets out of date about as fast as a first class battle ship.

The "Yellow Jacket," a new political insect, published in North Carolina, has arrived. It is yellow, too.

A look over the country for the old fashioned Democratic party warrants the opinion that there ain't any remains.

Creating a second Cuba would be easier than finding out how to keep its defeated candidates from taking to the hills.

The little red school houses are about to reopen without a new rule that the foot in spelling matches is to take the prize.

It is now permissible to spell it Sair, which is some worse than Sayre. —Sayre Times.
Oh, impossible!

The demand for rubber is so great these days it is not stretching the truth to say that a grove of rubber trees is a gold mine.

Tom ohnson refers to Bryan's election as two years ahead of time. It has the habit of striking every month in the year except November.

The Georgia Democrats who took pains to kill all except one party find themselves in possession of several factions and the biggest muck rake.

And now it is up to the Democratic press to find fault with the President because his son actually witnessed and publicly expressed an opinion upon a prize fight.

It begins to look as though some one should be employed to simplify the registration laws. Events of Tuesday prove that the wording has been too complicated for many of the voters and clerks in the larger cities.

The editor of the Argus attended the reception and mass meeting at Athens on Tuesday and was so favorably impressed with Athens, Athenians and the North End generally that he declares himself in favor of holding all the Democratic political meetings up there.

The statement that Hearst is spending a million dollars in his campaign and that the Democratic leaders opposed to him are putting out dollar for dollar, must be interesting reading for that element of the Democratic party that stands for anti-corruption as well as anti-corporation influence.

No lives lost in construction and the two sections of the tube to meet not a sixteenth of an inch askew. These two points of fact make most enviable, from humanitarian and engineering points of view, the achievement to be recorded for the contractors on the Pennsylvania Railroad's North river tunnel at New York.

During the past few months there has seemingly developed a remarkable propensity for loafing, on the part of a certain portion of Towanda's youth whose chief occupation is that of passing the time. This service they render the public free of charge, exacting, however, an allowance from their parents for soda water and cigarettes. And, anyway, it is none of the public's business if these nice looking fellows are idle; they could work if they wanted to; they're only resting from the arduous labor of several month's school work; they are waiting for a good opening, etc, etc.

True; true enough. And no one would say a word publicly or privately, possibly if the young gentlemen overstocked with time interfered with no one. But they do. Several times within the last month the work of the police department has been seriously impeded because every time an officer attempts to make an arrest, every time a man in uniform moves up the street faster than a slow march, up springs the idle young man in droves and flocks, asking questions, offering useless help, running ahead and blocking the passage to the lock-up, or following in the wake, roaring supposedly humorous remarks at the unfortunate captive.

Police interference is only one phase of this subject, but it is one that will shortly discontinue, for while the local police are long suffering, indeed, patience will soon cease to be a virtue and when that stage is reached, Chief Miller's habit is prompt and indiscriminate action. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

VERMONT SUSTAINS ROOSEVELT.

The election in Vermont last week is conclusive proof that the Republicans of that state sustain the President. The effort to swerve it from the Republican column by means of the nomination for governor of a disgruntled Republican backed by Democrats was a dismal failure. The regular candidates for congress swamped the coalition men running against them. The state campaign issue was between the organization headed by Senator Proctor and represented in the contest by the candidacy of his son for governor, and Percival Clement, an independent endorsed by the Democrats, who ran on a platform of opposition to what was charged as the machine methods and extravagant administration of the state government under the Proctor regime.

Four years ago Clement ran on much the same platform, but without the Democratic endorsement. McCullagh, his Republican rival, beat him by 3,663 votes, but the Democratic poll of 7,564 for their candidate left the Republicans, while actually victors, as the representatives of a minority of the voters. This year the error of division was rectified, but although Clement reduced the Republican majority over the Democratic ticket to the lowest figure since 1890, bringing the normal Republican majority down to about 15,000, the Proctor administration retains control.

The lesson of Vermont may be taken to heart elsewhere. Even if the vote for Mr. Proctor is pulled down a bit the reduction shows how insignificant is the Democratic vote in these good times, and especially how determined the people are to support the administration at Washington. There is no slump in the vote for congressmen as there is in that for governor. Even if a few were turned aside from their party on local questions they cannot be moved an inch away from the President.

The President is taking a lively interest in the congressional campaign for he wants his party and his countrymen to give him a congress of his own sort. He has more work to do and plenty of it. He should have a house as solidly dependable as now. The way to get it is to elect Republicans and not half baked men who represent nothing but Democracy and personal ambition.

WHAT BELL WILL DO.

In a veiled attack upon its arch-enemy, District Attorney Jerome, the New York World pays high compliment to the district attorney of Philadelphia. "This man, Bell, says the World, "seems to be afflicted with hopelessly old-fashioned notions about the functions and duties of a district attorney."

"Bear in mind," he said in discussing the looting of the Real Estate Trust company, "that is the intention of this department to get at the bottom of this game of thievery and loot, and no one, from the lowliest office boy to the highest official, will escape if guilty. Restitution in the eyes of the law is no guarantee of absolution from prosecution, and when I say this I mean it."

In answer to a question whether this statement meant that he would presecute certin directors of the company, Mr. Bell replied: "It means simply this: That if in the course of our investigation we come across any evidence of fraud or double-dealing on the part of the directors, or that they possessed any knowledge of Hipple's nefarious transactions, we shall not hesitate to prosecute them, and no stone will be left unturned in our efforts to gain their conviction, no matter how powerful the influence that may be brought to bear in their behalf."

What a primitive method of procedure! Not one word about "moral obliquity." No hypothetical questions submitted to a presiding judge to ascertain whether or not a crime may have been committed. No habeas corpus proceedings on the cooked-up affidavits. No vehement speeches setting forth the difficulty of convicting wealthy and influential men who have comitted crimes. No splitting of hairs over the question of whether the eminent gentlemen who stole the depositor's money intended to steal it. Nothing but due process of law, and plenty of it.

THE RESULT IN MAINE.

The returns from the election held in Maine on Monday show that the Republican ticket was elected by a greatly reduced majority. This was largely due to two factors—the labor question and the liquor traffic. The former was injected into the campaign by President Samuel Gompers of the Federation of Labor in his opposition to Congressman Littlefield, who was re-elected in the second district by a majority much less than that of two years ago.

Governor Cobb, who ran on a Republican platform favoring strict prohibition of the liquor business was elected over his opponent, Cyrus W. Davies, by a plurality of 7,000. Two years ago Governor Cobb's plurality over this same opponent was 26,000 votes.

Republican politics in the state of New York are mixed, terribly mixed, and are getting hotter every hour. It is the opinion of a good many Republicans that Hughes, the investigator of life insurance, would be a good man to run for governor. The "only" thing he lacks is the support of the managers of the party throughout the state.

A woman who was evicted from her miserable home in Chicago last week left her "quads" at a police station for safe keeping—not quadrupeds, but three boys and a girl all of whom were just four years and two weeks old. This case should interest President Roosevelt.

AN AUTHORITY SPEAKS.

In a recent number of the Annals of the American Academy of Social Science appears a most interesting essay contributed by George W. Ochs, publisher of the Philadelphia Ledger and the New York Times, two of America's most representative daily journals. "Journalism" is the subject chosen, and the article constitutes a powerful indictment against the exaggerated tendencies of certain publications that are at war with all orderly conditions and attract attention to themselves by mountebank methods.

Those sheets were, according to Mr. Ochs, "at first called 'yellow,' a term which implied sensationalism. They chiefly dealt with the seamy side of human nature, giving unlimited space to tales of hideous crime, flaunting vice in its most abhorrent form in gross exaggeration, crawling like serpents across the thresholds of the home, and laying bare with vulgar play the most sacred confidences of family circles; holding u pto coarse ridicule the precious heritages of sanctified living; profaning the temples of virtue; dealing in salacious scandal and gorging to satiety those who have insensate hunger for pruriency and sensuality."

Having exhausted the "yellow" field, Mr. Ochs says those journals immediately flaunted the "red" and began to devote their attention to attacks on established institutions. He says they "inflame incompetence against capability; teach that honor and integrity have fled from high places; that our national congress is a den of thieves; that our judiciary is contaminated; that our administrators are in corrupt leage with scoundrels and traitor; that our entire commercial and financial life is infected with dishonesty."

In commenting on Mr. Ochs's essay the ably edited Scranton Tribune says:

While Mr. Ochs draws a truthful picture of a certain small, unscrupulous and noisy section of the American press, we are inclined to think that he magnifies its importance unduly. Its pabulum is such as he describes, but it defeats its own purpose by its virulence. It shouts in poster type until nobody heeds what it has to say.

With the increase of intelligence, through the ministrations of our schools, the unscrupulous journalist of loud ideas and big type must go to the rear. He holds the same relation to genuine journalism that the barnstorming actor does to the theatrical profession, the quack to the science of medicine, or a barnacle to a ship.

Sound, conscientious, earnest journalism is a greater power than ever for the general good. Honest publicity was never a more potent force in the world's affairs than it is today.

The main body of American journalism still maintains the best traditions of the profession, and there is a growing tendency toward betterment year after year. Unfortunately the unscrupulous make the most noise, and therefore create an impression in the minds of the unthinking, that they are representative of an established condition instead of being an excrescence.

HARVARD'S DEFEAT.

The best boat has won on the Thames, but it is not necessary to blink the fact that Harvard's defeat is a keen disappointment of confident hopes.

The superior practice work of the Crimson had inspired itself that at last, after nearly 40 years of endeavor and in a Harvard lucky year, under conditions which appeared favorable to the visitors, the outcome of the most representative international race between college eights would be an American victory. In weight and in watermanship, in experience and in endurance, the Harvard crew showed itself equally matched with Cambridge. Against it counted an unfamiliarity with a course in the horseshoe curves of which lurk risks which try a coxswain's skill and in which Cambridge, through the choice of position, gained an advantage.

The winning time is eight seconds faster than made by Cambridge against Oxford last April, and is relatively as fast as the 18 minutes and 50 seconds record of Harvard in practice with favoring wind and water. What conclusions, if any, are to be drawn between the contrasting styles of stroke the experts must determine. The one essential fact is that Cambridge, starting in the lead, was able to maintain and increase it.

The race was rowed under ideal conditions of harmony and in a spirit of sportsmanship which should do much to foster international athletic amity.

STATE NEEDS GOOD ROADS.

Senator Knox has just returned from a tour of the continent and declares that one of Pennsylvania's greatest needs is good roads, and many there be who will think the senator's head is level there. He says:

"I toured several thousand miles through Germany, France and Switzerland; in fact I think I visited almost every accessible part of the latter country and also spent much time in Savoy. The roads in Europe are magnificent. They are for the most part macadam and I have no hesitancy in saying that if we had such roads in the commonwealth of Pennsylvania the value of the agricultural land would be quadrupled. We have just as rich soil, just as beautiful scenery and the only thing we lack to make the land more valuable is accessibility."

Let the farmers of Bradford county think on these words and be governed by them when they are called on to decide between good and bad highways.

THE STRONG ARM OF THE STATE.

In view of certain recent events in this, as in other sections of the great Keystone state, too emphatic stress can not be laid upon, nor too much attention drawn to the fact that the commonwealth will be maintained in a manner conforming to the dignity of the state. In discussing this point the Scranton Truth says vigorously:

The lawless-minded may as well understand, first as well as last, that the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will not abdicate to lawlessness. The State constabulary represents the commonwealth, and those who strike at it strike at the peace of the state.

There can be no truce with the vicious and disorderly who disturb the lives of peaceable persons with their barbaric threats and murderous antics. This commonwealth, although the home of peace has had to fight down many lawless movements, and will not at this late day permit conditions anywhere within its borders that would be disgraceful even on the frontier.

Those who undertook to conspire against the common weal, or to set at defiance law and authority, as was the case near Punxsutawney this week, must be dealt with vigorously. They must be made to feel the strong arm of the state. This is a civilized commonwealth and it cannot for one moment tolerate a condition little better than that of the savagery of a hundred years ago.

Especially is it incumbent upon those who some here to better their condition that they behave themselves as befits human beings in a land of freedom and fair play. This is not Russia, but the vengeance of Russia will not be more swift or certain than will be that of Pennsylvania against those who lift their hands against the peace of the commonwealth.

The full penalty of the law will be visited on the lawless, the disorderly and the riotous. The State constabulary, instead of being abolished at the next session of the legislature, should be increased for the purpose of protecting the communities that are exposed to the threats and attacks of the desperate. The sovereign power of Pennsylvania must be respected.

WILL KEEP UP THE FIGHT.

The executive committee of the State Board of Trade held a committee at Harrisburg on Friday and decided to continue its campaign for a 2-cent mileage rate on the steam railroads of Pennsylvania, regardless of the concessions which have been made by the companies recently. It was reported by S. N. Williams of Pittsburg, secretary of the board, that 121 of 137 legislative candidates have given written pledges to vote for a bill giving to trolley companies the right to carry freight will be submitted to a meeting of the board at Harrisburg on Oct. 3. At this meeting there will be speeches by lawyers who have made a study of these subjects.

The action of the Pennsylvania railroad in placing a $20, no rebate, thousand-mile book on the market on Sept. 1 was formally anonunced to the committee, as was the promise of the company that it will reduce fares to 2½ cents per mile as soon as possible. The committee has no knowledge when the company will make this reduction. A member said that it cannot do it within less than 30 days, as the Federal laws require 30 days' notice of a change in rates.

Ex-Mayor Vance C. McCormick of Harrisburg, president of the board, presided at the meeting of the executive committee, which will meet again on Sept. 25.

NO USE FOR AUTOS.

The scheme in the interest of using the automobile on the R. F. D. mail routes appears to have fallen through for the present, according to reports from Washington. In connection with recent tests by the postoffice department to demonstrate the adaptability of automobiles for use by carriers or rural mail, the statement has been made at the department that the automobile used was not constructed by the department or at its instance or suggestion. The department has no intention at present of supplying automobiles to carriers of rural mail. It is believed, however, that the gasoline buggy will in time be utilized. While it might not be serviceable in Winter in localities visited by heavy snow storms, there is no question that in the Summer time the auto would prove to be far superior to the horse on the rural delivery lines.

THE MOTOR EYE.

The motor eye is the latest development that the medical profession has to deal with. It appears that those who are continually rushing through the country on a motor car cause the eye to take a too rapid impression of the things it encounters and that this affects the mechanism of the eye. Nature did not prepare us for the conditions of modern times, and while it is adapting itself to them unforeseen circumstances must occur.

A month ago the village trustees of Waverly ordered the Waverly, Sayre & Athens Traction company to place fenders on their cars, but they have failed to do so. It is expected that at the next regular meeting of the village fathers the company will be brought to time. Waverly citizens seem to be of the sort who are not happy unless bringing some one or something "to time." Failing all these, the fall on each other.

The political sky is clearing. It begins to look like two years more of Bryan.

J. RAYMOND CLAGHORN DEAD.

J. Raymond Claghorn, died on Sunday at Hartford, Conn., at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. C. Bulkeley, of that city. He was 64 years old and his death came at the end of a long illness.

The deceased was for several yars the president of the State Line and Sullivan Railroad company, now a part of the Lehigh Valley system, and during that incumbency was a frequent visitor in Towanda and had a large acquaintance here. He was the son of the late James L. Claghorn, who was very prominent in Philadelphia, both as a financier and as a lover of art. The Hartford Courant of Monday last, said:

"J. Raymond Claghorn early became interested in his father's financial enterprises and soon came to hold a considerable place of his own. He was a director in many companies. He was an intimate friend of Archibald A. McLeod, whose Napoleonic management of the Reading is a part of our financial history, and was closely associated with Mr. McLeod in his futile attempt to gain complete control of the anthracite coal carriers. He took an active interest and part in the affairs of his native city. He served for many years in the council, when he was chairman of both the finance and the railroad committees. The treasuryship of the city was urged on him several times, but the requirements of his business interests would not permit of his acceptance.

"Mr. Claghorn was a well known club man. His father was one of the charter members of Philadelphia's noted Union League club, and the son was also a prominent member. He inherited his father's love of art and was chairman of the art committee of the Union League. He was also one of the founders of the Art Club of Philadelphia."

Mr. Claghorn retired from business some years ago and decided to make his home in Hartford, where one of his daughters had married. He made many friends there and his tall, striking figure became well known in the city. He was a man of genial, affable nature, and he maintained his cheerfulness and patience unimpaired through his long illness. He leaves a wife and two children, Mrs. Bulkeley and Clarence Raymond Claghorn, general manager of the Northern Pacific Railroad Colliery and Improvement company, with headquarters at Tacoma, Washington.

Poor, But Gave a Hundred Dollars.

A woman of meagre means walked into the store of Mears & Hagen, of Scranton, on Saturday morning, and approaching J. A. Mears, the senior member of the firm, placed an envelope in his hand with the remark: "I want to give this as a contribution for the Consumptive hospital." "How much is there in the envelope?" asked Mr. Mears. "One hundred dollars," said the woman, and then she added that under no circumstances should her name be published. "I saved this from my earnings," the woman said, "and I want to try and help some poor sufferer up on the mountain. I am sorry that I haven't more to give, but I hope that the benefit arranged for the hospital will be a success. Mr. Mears knew the woman and knew something of her means, and tried to persuade her that she was giving too much. "You cannot afford to give one hundred dollars. Why, your income is only $25 a month, and you have to support yourself with that," he said, but the argument was of no avail. She insisted she had saved the money for just such a purpose. After she had gone Mr. Hagen looked at the envelope and found it was addressed "For the Consumptive Hospital, with the hope that it will benefit some suffering one. From a friend."

Rev. DeWitt Resigns.

A Scranton special to the Philadelphia Record says: "Because there was objection on the part of some of the trustees to his attending professional base ball games Rev. Edward W. DeWitt has resigned the pastorate of the North Main avenue church, to which he came from Athens a year ago.

Mr. DeWitt will be remembered as the clergyman who acted as spiritual adviser to Bigler Johnson, previous to his execution, and who came near causing complications through his connection with the notorious murder trial.

Hail at Monroeton.

During the electric storm Tuesday afternoon considerable hail fell at Monroeton and vicinity. Several small pieces of tobacco remaining uncut were destroyed. Some of the hailstones were of extreme size.

Certainly remarkable, when you consider that wool has been advanced 10 to 25 per cent. in price. With many clothing manufacturers that increase meant less hand-tailoring or inferior materials—probably both—to keep down to what they were last year. That was not the case with the makers of

TOWANDA IS REPRESENTED AT NUMEROUS COLLEGES.

Great Showing for Local High School and Mental Calibre of Students.

With the opening of the Towanda High school on Monday came the end of a vacation which has been spent in various ways by the young people who make up the undergraduate body of the school. The life of a modern and rightly conducted High school follows closely the lines and ideals of a small college, and in a measure the success of a school may be judged from the number of students it sends to pursue a course of higher education in some of the institutions for which this country is becoming famous. The quality of Towanda's High school students is reflectd in the substantial list of those now attending colleges and universities, after having been prepared in the local schools With the re-opening of the Susquehanna Collegiate Institute, the list next year may be made even larger. In the interest of higher education, and proud of the showing, The Reporter-Journal publishes herewith some names of Towanda young people who are this month leaving for college. It is quite possible that even this large list is incomplete, but if there are omissions, it is simply because inquiry failed to bring the name to light:

Miss Esther Wilt, Westchester Normal, Julia Spalding, Missouri State university, Columbia, Mo.; Frances and Myra Chaffee, Bucknell; Annie Hale, Wells college; Louise Rockwell, West Chester Normal; Miss Elsie Searing, Washington Seminary.

Fred G. Rockwell, Harvard; David Pratt, Cornell; Sterling Pratt and George Dayton, Amherst; Charles Reed, Miles Smith, University of Pennsylvania; Richard D. Ayers, William Ransome, Edmund Turner, Dudley Dowd, James Angle, all to Pennsylvania State college; Rodney A. Mercur, Jr., Lehigh; George Rooker and Ford Park to Syracuse; D. LaVerne McNeal, St. Lawrence university; John Silverman, New York university; James Little to Columbia; Edward MacFarlane, Lehigh; Burt Bazzett may go to St. John's Military Academy, and E. A. Parsons, Jr., may go to Bucknell.

Eugene and Mabel Thompson will go to Syracuse university; Bartlett MacFarlane is in the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Did Not Trust the Grand Jury.

Following a suspicion that efforts might be made to improperly influeene the grand jury, now in session, relative to charges of conspiracy and forgery against four men of Plains township, District Attorney Jones of Wilkes-Barre on Friday directed the jurors to make an immediate return of the findings to date instead of waiting until Saturday, as usual. These returns included 13 true bills against Martin Barrett, Patrick McGroarty and Michael Higgins, on the charges of forgery and conspiracy. It is claimed judgment notes they hold against Plains township are forged, and that a conspiracy existed to defarud the township. There is a rumor that men suspected of trying to influence juries have been seen with grand jurors, and that they are emboldened by the refusal of the jury to indict Louis Weiscarged, who has been twice arrested on the charge of embracery.

Held to Court.

The case of the commonwealth vs. John Leets of Laquin, was heard on Tuesday morning in Justice Meredith's court. Leets was charged with assault upon William Eldred, a 10 years old boy; about a score of Laquin residents were on hand to testify as to the child's reputation, and the evidence took up the entire morning. The defendant was held to court in the sum of $100, bail being furnished by friends. Attorney D. E. Kaufman appeared for the commonwealth and Wiliam P. Wilson for the defense.

Fingers Crushed.

Chales F. Gillis, son of John Gillis of Sayre, had one finger of his left hand amputated and another badly crushed while at work in the round house Friday morning. He was on the front end of an engine when his fellow workman started to close the smoke door. Gillis saw that the latch was not in proper position and while the door was swinging he reached his hand to change the latch, his hand was caught by the door and injured.

Knew His Own Boat.

R. J. VanGorder, the well known farmer whose farm and several cottages are on the banks of the Susquehanna river, near Chemung, N. Y., came to Towanda, and thence to Rummerfield, on Monday, where he identified as his property a boat, believed by the police to have been stolen by Towanda parties and transported by them down the two rivers.

Buys a Restaurant.

F. J. Kline has taken possession of the restaurant in Main street which has been conducted by Daniel Wilcox for some time past. Kline will be remembered by many who used to patronize the Ward House restaurant, about two years ago. He is thoroughly well versed in his business and will undoubtedly meet with success.

Has Appendicitis.

Catherine, the 11 years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Duggan, of North Fourth street, was taken on Sept. 5 to the Mercy hospital, at Wilkes-Barre, where she will undergo an operation for appendicitis. The child was taken suddenly ill while playing about the house, and an immediate operation was advised.

INSURANCE RATES DISCUSSED.

Towanda Business Men Took Action on Important Question.

The Towanda Business Men's association held a largely attended meeting Monday evening, it being the first meeting after a vacation of several weeks. The subject of the recent large increase in fire insurance rates was the topic of discussion. It was stated that the stock companies had arbitrarily increased the rate 25 per cent. for the avowed purpose of making their policy holders pay for the immense losses sustained in San Francisco. This resolution was adopted:

Whereas, the fire insurance companies have increased the rates for insurance 25 per cent., which they claim is to recoup them for losses sustained in the San Francisco fire, therefore,

Resolved, That we deem it unjust and unfair that country towns should be called upon and required to pay city losses, where their rates are very much less.

Resolved, That we protest against this increase as unnecessarily excessive, which upon some classes of properties is in fact prohibitory.

Following the adoption of this resolution there was a general discussion of the subject. G. T. Ingham, who has had a large experience in mutual companies, explained the plan and the comparaiive cost of stock companies and mutual companies and counseled the formation of mutual companies.

On motion the chair was empowered to appoint a committee of three to investigate the insurance question in Towanda, and to report at the next meeting. The association also adopted a resolution requesting the senators and representatives who may be elected from this district to the next legislature to investigate the question of whether there exists an insurance trust, and if they find such to be in existence to initiate legislation tending to remedy the evil.

Much interest was manifested by latte business men present, and several spoke on the subject.

TOWANDA HORSES WINNERS.

Raced Last Week at Newark Valley and Moravia Fairs.

Towanda horses that are racing at the New York state fairs, driven by Eddie Downs of Binghamton, are making splendid records, as the following will show: On Tuesday of last week the trotting gelding "Major Ross," won first money in three straight heats at the Newark Valley fair. On Wdenesday the pacer, "Direct Jim," the Kinney horse, took second money, and on Thursday "Jack London," a green pacer only trained this Summer, won second money in three staright heats, at the same track.

On Saturday "Major Ross" raced again at Moravia, N. Y., and took second money in a field of eight starters in three straight heats. The time was 2:24¼.

All these Towanda horses and many other fast ones will be at the Towanda fair the last week in September.

Rogers on "Sheridan."

The U. S. Army transport "Sheridan," which lies stranded on a coral reef near Honolulu, is the ship on which C. Stanley Rogers of this place, is quartermaster. The latest dispatches to the quartermaster general at Washington say there is no possible hope of saving the ship. The passengers were all safely taken on board a passing steamer and landed at Honolulu, but the officers and crew are still aboard.

The "Sheridan" is one of the largest of the transports, being 450 feet long, and carrying 3,000 passengers.

Scouten was attorney for the defense.

On Aug. 24, at the Baptist parsonage in Chemung, N. Y., was solemnized the marriage of Miss Stella Lindley and Leslie Yontz. The bride is a popular Towanda girl, and the groom is an Athens young man, an employe of the Lehigh. The news of the interesting ceremony just leaked out among friends of the contracting parties, who are now being congratulated.

Finger Amputated.

Martin McMahon, a workman employed by John Dolan, the contractor, had the little finger of his right hand amputated at the Sayre hospital on Monday. The finger was injured some time ago, and as it has been gradually getting worse it was thought best to take it off.

DISPOSITION MADE OF THE N. N. BETTS PROPERTIES.

Little Interest Taken in Sale, Except by Banks and Lawyers.

The second week's sheriff's sales, held Friday afternoon at the court house, resulted as follows:

The lot situate in Standing Stone township, seized and taken into execution at the suit of Bridget Kane vs. M. H. Kane and Lillie Kane, was sold to John C. Ingham for $125.

The three properties situate in Towanda borough and being a part of the lands taken into execution at the suit of the First National bank of Towanda vs. N. N. Betts, and comprising the Betts homestead, the house on Second street adjoining, and the barn lot, were sold to Mrs. Alice W. Betts, for $100. U. M. Fell purchased the lot in Orwell township containing 167 acres, 33 perches adjoining the lands of J. J. Newell, the price named being $50 cash; this sale also included the farm in Orwell of 200 acres, with house, barn and buildings.

The one-half interest in the lot in Towanda conveyed by B. S. Russell and wife to Edward Overton. Jr., and N. N. Betts, Jr., went to E. F. Kizer, the purchase price being $200. For $10 cash, U. M. Fell bought the interest of Mr. Betts in the Cash homestead, and for $150 the one-half interest in the lot in Towanda of about seven acres. Mr. Betts's interest in several unseated lands in Overton, Barclay and Monroe townships, went also to U. M. Fell for $10.

VETERANS AT ULSTER.

Annual Encampment Was Well Attended—Campfire Proved Enjoyable.

The annual encampment of the soldiers and sailors of Bradford county was brought to a close on Wednesday last. Fully 500 veterans with their families, spent a delightful day in McCarthy's grove. There were no set speeches nor a regular program, but the veterans did have a fine visit.

Tuesday evening there was a most enjoyable campfire. The only state officer present was Assistant Adjutant Suydam of Philadelphia, and he was handicapped by a severe fall, due to a misstep in the dark which threw him down a flight of stairs. He made a happy speech, however, and there were speeches by Hon. E. M. Tuton, Rev. W. H. Sawtelle, Rev. H. G. Blair, Past Department Commander Wilt and others.

FIRE DEPARTMENT PARADE.

Thursday, September 27, if the Day Set for It.

At a meeting of the fire board at the Franklin engine house on Friday evening it was decided to have the annual parade of the Towanda Fire department on the evening of Thursday, Sept. 27. The line of march will be from Park street to Franklin, to the Episcopal church, and then back to Park street. Instead of drawing the fire apparatus over the line of march, as usual, it will be placed in front of the court house for inspection. It will be necessary to raise some funds to pay for the illumination in the way of red fire, etc., and Ed. Wood, Thomas Ryan and F. H. Johnson were appointed a committee to solicit such funds.

Athens Police Scored.

At the regular session of the Athens borough council, the local police were hauled over the coals in no uncertain manner, for various sins of commission and omission. Councilman Stevens was irritated into eloquence by the presentation of a bill of $12 for special police services during last week's troubles with the Italians. The police declared Councilman Stevens had done nothing nor made any effort to keep order. Mr. Stevens also drew emphatic attention to the unmolested rowdyism of boys and young men who are in the habit of loafing in front of A. E. Bressler's store. Chief Mulligan made a defense and the objectionable bill was paid.

It was that of Miss Marguerite Meredith and Warren Scott Smith. Dr. Houghton, pastor of the M. E. church, was out of town, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. S. H. Heermans, in the presence of the bride's family and of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Smith of Williamsport, father and mother of the groom. An elegant wedding breakfast was served and Mr. and Mrs. Smith took train No. 157 for a wedding trip. The newly married couple will be at home after Sept. 26 at 523 Second street. The valuable wedding presents showed the practical interest taken by their many friends in their starting out in life.

Still the "Leper Car."

The Sayre populace are inclined to make all kinds of complications for the Lehigh, from the fact that the "leper car" was not destroyed as the people supposed, but was repainted and renumbered, and an effort made to lose its identity. Now the talk in Sayre is that shippers will refuse to order goods shipped by Lehigh cars fearing contamination. How any great quantity of goods can arrive at Sayre without coming over the Lehigh does not seem to occur to the agitators, but will in time probably. Supt. Kinney promises to produce a document which says there is no leprosy about the car.

Mrs. Flynn Flyin'.

Hattie Flynn, charged with being a common scold, and whose case was No. 17 on the present court calendar, did not appear when her name was called, and it develops that she has decamped, leaving her bail bondsman to settle with the court. CAMPED AND FORAGED.

Heeman Family Created Uproar While on Annual Outing.

Even when on a vacation and away from the maddening throng, the Heeman family, who claim this place as home can not seem to keep out of harm's way ;as the result of a camping excursion in which Lyman Heeman and family indulged last week, the constabulary of two counties are on the trail and Mrs. Henry Heeman, and Lyman, Jr., are now in the Towanda jail, charged with the theft of a variety of articles from residents in the vicinity of Chemung. WARSHIP FOR CUBA

PALMA'S ABILITY DOUBTED

Washington Fears That Insurrection Is Making Great Headway—President Roosevelt Keeping In Close Touch With Affairs on the Island.

Washington, Sept. 11.—American shipping and commercial interests about Havana are to have the protection of an American warship in Cuban waters. While government officials show an inclination not to discuss Cuban affairs in any particular beyond making public dispatches from Mr. Sleeper, the American charge at Havana, confirming dispatches printed in the daily press, there can be no doubt from the attitude of the officials that the cruiser Des Moines, which cleared from Norfolk, is sailing on a state department mission, and it is rumored in official circles that she will proceed immediately to Havana.

The secrecy concerning the Des Moines extends to all officials of the navy department, where it is said she has been sent for a cruise for the benefit of the health of the sailors and marines.

President Roosevelt, it is rumored here, is responsible for the sailing of the Des Moines. It is known that the state department is keeping him advised daily of all information received from Havana and that he is keeping in close touch with the situation from every possible source.

The sailing of the Des Moines has chilled the sanguinary feeling in official circles of President Palma's ability to promptly suppress the insurrection, and it is believed here that the revolutionary force may be making greater headway than would be supposed from the meager news which comes from the island. The very fact that it has become necessary to dispatch a United States cruiser to Cuban waters is taken as an indication that the seriousness of the uprising has been belittled.

CUBAN OFFICIALS WORRY.

Vice President of Senate Said to Have Joined Rebels.

Havana, Sept. 11.—Although it is not generally admitted, the government officials are more or less anxious because no recent reports have been received of the movements of General Pino Guerra.

What appears to be positive confirmation has been received of the report that Alfredo Zayas, president of the Liberal party and vice president of the Cuba senate, is among the group of prominent men who have joined the insurgents outside Havana.

The mayor of Moro, in the province of Puerto Principe, reports a fight in his vicinity of rural guardsmen and volunteers with a band of rebels. The latter were dispersed. The casualties of the affair are not known.

Concerning the present attitude of the government and the decrees issued by President Palma, General Rafael Montalvo, secretary of public works, said:

"The government has been entirely too lenient with the rebels. Our desire to avoid fraternal bloodshed has been mistaken for vacillation. The suspension of constitutional guarantees was necessary to affect the arrest of several senators and congressmen who form the central revolutionary committee in this city and whose actions have been closely watched lately by men of the secret service."

Asked why such radical action was taken at the moment when the prospects for peace were fair, General Montalvo answered:

"The solution of the problem suggested by the Veterans' association favored the rebels. It was consequently deemed imperative to call a meeting of the cabinet to take a decisive step."

Concerning the rumors that the rebels purposed attacking Havana, General Montalvo said there were but a few small and unimportant bands on the outskirts of the city and no large force near Havana. The city itself was amply protected.

"Aggressive action now will be begun," General Montalvo concluded, "against the rebels in Havana, Santa Clara and Pinar del Rio provinces. The weakness of the revolution in the last named province already has been proved by the defeat of Pino Guerra."

Ernesto Fontsy Sterling, secretary of the treasury, said the report that the Cuban government had been in communication with Washington is without foundation; that Washington had not been consulted in any manner.

The following were arrested today: Ex-Congressman Dr. Malberty, Clerk of the House of Representatives Felipe Gonzales Sarmin, Dr. Manuel Secades and ex-Mayor of Havana Juan Ramon O'Farrill, who was ousted from his post by Governor Nunez in order to make room for a Moderate successor.

BRADFORD COUNTY FAMILIES HOLD ENJOYABLE REUNIONS.

Many Pleasant Gatherings Have Been Held During August.

The family reunion habit is growing on the people of Bradford county, as is attested by the many pleasant gatherings of that character held during the last few weeks.

Bowen.

The fifteenth annual reunion of the Bowen family was held at Joseph Bowen's, at Warren Center, Wednesday, Aug. 22. There were 40 persons present. The weather was fair and all enjoyed the occasion. At 1 o'clock dinner was announced and all gathered around the large table and did ample justice to the lovely dinner. The rest of the day was spent in a social way. There has been one death, Nathan Newman of Warren Center, and one marriage, Stanley Bowen of New York city, and Blanche Congdon of Lestershire, N. Y., in the past year. The next reunion will be held at Dexter Chaffee's, West Warren, the third Saturday in August, 1707.

Cooper and Woodin Reunion.

The third annual reunion of the Cooper and Woodin families was held at Mountain Lake, on Thursday, Aug. 30. About 8 a. m, the friends began to gather from New York, Athens, Sayre, Towanda, East Smithfield, Sayles, Big Pond, Franklin, Wetona, Burlington, and Mountain Lake, numbering about 60. At noon the table was spread in the hotel dining room, with all the dainties found at a picnic dinner. A short but interesting program followed, opening with a hymn and led in prayer by Rev. Yerden, Burlington. Minutes of last meeting were read and approved. This was followed by recitations by Mrs. Yerden and Ina Holcomb, which were enjoyed by all, and solos were rendered by Fair Thompson and Allen Woodin. Joseph Woodin made a few remarks that were touching as well as helpful. A letter was read by Mae Cooper from an absent relative, Mrs. Mary Baldwin, Elmira, that brought back old memories to some as her mother was a sister of Laben Cooper and her mother's sister married Ephriam Woodin, also her father's brother married Lucretia Woodin. Rev. Yerden made a few remarks that were greatly appreciated. The same officers were re-elected for the following year: President, Frank Horan, Towanda; vice-president, R. A. Holcomb, Sayre; secretary, W. W. Cooper, Ulster; corresponding secretary, Mae Cooper, East Smithfield; treasurer, E. B. Cooper, East Smithfield. The time and place for next year was decided to be the third Wednesday in August, at Mountain Lake. We wish to extend our thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Spencer for the accommodations that were offered by them; also to Rev. and Mrs. Yerden for their help in entertaining. Lemonade, cake and watermelon were served for lunch. It was the wish of all that they might spend many such pleasant times at our reunions as was spent that day.

Rutty.

The sixth annual reunion of the descendants of David Rutty was held Thursday, Aug. 30, at Island Park, North Towanda. The Ruttys were pioneer settlers in the Sugar Creek valley, coming from Duchess county, N. Y., and the land where we met has been in the family for 121 years. Sickness and business lowered the attendance some, but 57 responded to the dinner call, and after all were satisfied, president Charles H. Rutty, Jr., called a short business session. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, and a history of the family from 1785 to 1890 was read. After some discussion it was decided to hold a general reunion in 1907 at the same place, th ethird Thursday in August. Officers were elected as follows: President, Charles H. Rutty, Jr., Towanda; first vice president, David A. Rutty, Elmira; second vice president, William F. Keys, Jr., Williamsport; secretary, Mrs. Allan Tuttle, North Towanda; treasurer, C. N. Shepard, Towanda; committee of arrangements, Mrs. Sue Granger, Mrs. Hiram Rutty, Mrs. J. C. Lane, Mrs. Griswold, Mrs. David A. Rutty. Death has taken one from the roll, Harry D. Harden. Frank G. Rutty and Emma A. Draper were married Nov. 22, 1905, at Wilmington, Del. Two new members claims a place, Harold F. Tuttle and James H. Harden, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Harden. We gladly welcomed the new faces from Elmira and Williamsport, and hope to met some more next year. With swings, quoits and a phonograph, the afternon passed all too quickly, and we parted with many resolves to "be there" next year.

Wright.

The eleventh annual reunion of the Wright family was held in R. H. Wright's orchard, Aug. 18. There was over 100 present. After a delicious dinner was served the company was called to order by the president, and the following officers elected: President, Merton Smiley; vice president, C. C. Brown; secretary, Miss Helen Wright. J. R. Wright remains historian and Mrs. Emma Musser, assistant.

Vaughan.

The Vaughans held a reunion at Mrs. J. C. Vaughan's on Vaughan Hill, in Wyalusing township, on Aug. 30. About 30 relatives were present, including two clergymen—Rev. Mr. Manrnes and Rev. Cooke, of Wyalusing. Both clergymen gave a short talk after dinner, as well as most of the guests, the speaking being interspersed with vocal and instrumental music. Letters were read from various members of the family, scattered over various parts of the country. James E. Vaughan read an article on "Family Characteristics," which was well received. John and Dan Keeler of Gerayville, and Wyalusing, talked of the pleasant recollections of boyhood days spent on Vaughan Hill. The Vaughan family were among the earliest settlers in Southeastern Bradford, the founder of the family having migrated from England before the Revolutionary war. One of his sons serving under George Washington as quartermaster, being buried in the Wyalusing cemetery in 1790. He come from Litchfield, Conn., to Wyalusing, and was the progenitor of all the Vaughans in this section. For the ensuing year James E. Vaughan was elected president of the association, and Mrs. V. D. Keeler, secretary.

Wilcox.

The eighth annual reunion of the descendants of John D. and Deborah Wilcox was held in the forest grove at Shunk, Aug. 31. The day was perfect. At 12 o'clock dinner was called and 300 sat down to a bountiful feast. After dinner the guests enjoyed a fine literary and musical program rendered by the young folks. The orchestra under the supervision of Mrs. Z. T. Wilcox, was fine. M. J. Lefes made a speech followed by the business meting at which William Wilcox of Newark, N. J., was elected president, Mrs. Elda Wilcox of North Street, secretary, Daniel Wilcox of Athens, vice president, and Albert Wilcox of Millview, treasurer. It was decided to hold the next reunion Aug. 30, 1907, at the same place.

Brainard.

The third annual reunion of the Brainard family was held Sept. 1, at the pleasant home of William Leturnours, in Orwell. The day was fine and the meeting was largely attended, 60 being present. There were 50 of the Barinard family and 10 of the Currier family present, some coming a long distance. They were present from Binghamton, Wyalusing, North Orwell and North Warren. The tables were loaded with the good things to which all did ample justice. The following officers were elcted for the coming year: President, J. H. Brainard; vice president, T. Brink. The old secretary and treasurer were re-elected. Frisbie and Wood.

The sixth annual reunion of the Frisbie and Wood families was held at New Albany park, Saturday, Sept. 1. We note a marked increase in attendance and enthusiasm, the cordial greetings were a certain indication that the members of the various families look forward with pleasure to these annual meetings with relatives and families. The bountiful feast provided by the ladies entitle them to recognition as past mistresses in this particular art. The attendance was about 80 members and a large number of invited guests. The business meeting was called to order by president J. J. Frisbie, and officers elected for the ensuing year were: President, J. J. Frisbie; vice president, Mrs. Emma Corbin; secretary, U. G. Frisbie; treasurer, Joseph Pardo. All enjoyed the program, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, followed by an address by Rev. Elbert of Forksville. Relatives from a distance were Frank Frisbie, from Franklin, Pa., and Myron Frisbie from Pittsburg, Pa., David Dixon of Tacoma, Wash., being represented by letter.

Ross.

About 60 members of the Ross family met in Pratt's grove, West Burlington, on Thursday, Aug. 30, for their annual reunion. The day was perfect, but for various reasons the reunion was the smallest ever held. Each year we notice the absence of familiar faces of the older members of the family, but never before has there been such a marked change. We were glad to welcome for the first time at our reunion Mrs. Beth Wilcox Osgood and daughter of Wisconsin, aid Richard Ross of Michigan. The time of meeting was changed to the last Thursday in July. It is earnestly urged that greater interest be shown next year. The literary program was very good.

A reunion of the Hines family was held at the home of J. L. Hines, Athens, on Aug. 30. Fifty persons were present and had a good time. A gold watch and chain was presented to J. L. Hines, and a fine dinner was servedfl

Cole, Mrs. George Grace.

The ninth annual reunion of the Clarke family was held Aug. 29, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pepper in Burlington. About 59 were present. Dinner was served under a tent erected on the lawn. A short business meeting followed by music and recitation, made the afternoon pass very pleasantly. Two marriages and one birth have taken place in the family in the last year. The next reunion will be at Rix W. Clarke's, near Alba, the first Wednesday in August, 1907.

Anderson.

The third annual reunion of the Anderson family was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Anderson in Franklin, Sept. 1. Then the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President. I. C. The meeting was then dismissed, leaving the date for the next meeting Sept. 1, 1907.

Cowell.

The descendants of Jesse and Alice Cowell met at the Cowell homestead near Monroeton, on Friday, Sept. 7. Relatives were present to the number of 27. The day was an ideal one, and an enjoyable time was spent by all in conversation and listening to selections on the graphophone. A sumptuous dinner was served, after which the meeting was called to order by J. J. Frisbie. It was decided to organize a reunion. The following officers were then elected: L. K. Big Drainage Tunnel.

The contract was let on Friday last to Samuel Hayden of Dunmore for a tunnel which will drain the Pennsylvania collieries in the vicinity of the city of Pittston, and which will probably cost in the neighborhood of $10,000 for its construction. The tunnel will extend from Mill street, Pittston, to a point beneath the Heights at Cork Lane, and will be one of the longest drainage tunnels ever driven in that vicinity. The only one of its kind in that vicinity, in fact, was but recently completed at Dunmore, after a period of work extending over a period of about two years. Its success was complete and the Pennsylvania company will probably adopt this system of drainage at those of its collieries where it is practicable. The saving in the installation and maintenance of pumping systems is great. The Pittston tunnell will be 4,400 feet long. It will be 6x8 feet in size and will drain the Butler slopes, Nos. 8, 9 and 10.

ST. LOUIS WELCOMES BRYAN

Enthusiastic Crowd Breaks Up Conference He Is Holding.

St. Louis, Sept. 11.—A reception committee including former Governors E. O. Stannard and A. M. Dockery, National Committeeman Rothwell, United States Senator Stone and many other prominent Democrats greeted W. J. Bryan on his arrival here. St. Louis is the first stopping point in Mr. Bryan's tinerary of the south, which will end n Indian Territory late this month. He will address a mass meeting at the Colseum. A big crowd was assembled at Union station and cheered. After an nterval of general handshaking Mr. Bryan was escorted to the Hotel Jefferson. After breakfast at the Hotel Jefferson Mr. Bryan held a general reception for an hour and later visited the Merchants' exchange.

The corridors of the Hotel Jefferson were thronged with people leager to shake hands with Mr. Bryan. The hall eading to his apartments was congested, and the bellboy stationed before the door was besieged. Mr. Bryan was holding a conference with some politicians when the bellboy left the door for a moment. Instantly the crowd opened it and surged through. The conference was at once ended, and Mr. Bryan sprang to his feet and greeted the throng, shaking hands with each one.

He said he had not been following closely the ouster proceedings of Attorney General Hadley against the alleged oil combine, but, referring to Attorney General Hadley, he said:

"I'm right with anybody who fights the trusts."

COUNTY W. C. T. U.

Twenty-First Annual Convention Held at New Albany.

GOOD PROGRESS REPORTED.

Summary of the Work of a Year of the White Ribboners of Bradford County—Gold Medal Contest Won by Miss Estep, of East Troy.

On Thursday last 50 White Ribboners arrived at New Albany and by noon the number had increased to over 80 voting members and visitors. They assembled in the Baptist church, which had been tastefully decorated for the occasion.

Mrs. Sylva B. Norrish, president, took the chair promptly at 10 a. m., and conducted a very inspiring evangelistic service. At 10:30 she declared the twenty-first annual convention open to do business. The morning session was so well carried out that there was time to listen to a few reports of the different departments of work. The noontide prayer was conducted by Mrs. Mary Dixon of New Albany. At 1:30 a devotional meeting was held after which Mrs. Norrish gave her annual address. She gave a short history of the year and said that she had been wonderfully supported by the prayers and sympathy of sisters the past few trying weeks. She made special mention of the medal contests, of which there have been 12 held in the county the past year. The press work of which there has been 70 columns of original matter published in our county papers, of many institutes she had held, and as she looked over the field saw the gleaners bringing in the sheaves. She had no word of discouragement to bring, even though our members had fallen off a little.

The treasurer reported money in the treasury. The evangelistic superintendent, Mrs. H. Smith, of Big Pond, gave a fine report of their local work. She had made 90 visits to the sick, and had had two conversions. Also much more work done not reported. Mrs. W. S. H. Loller of East Troy, gave a report of medal contests which was read by Miss Estep. We cannot give even a summary of all these reports as it would take too much room. Thursday evening the meeting opened by a choir of young people singing "We're for Home and Mother." Prayer by Rev. Rose Allen, after which Mrs. E. Norrine Law sang "I Stood on the Bridge at Midnight," playing her own accompaniment on an auto harp. After which she swayed the congregation for nearly two hours with truths that could not be gainsaid. She told them the first thing to do was to tell the people of New Albany and vicinity and all concerned, who generally said about the woman speakers that they might better be at home attending their own business, that she had no home or children to look after. She choose a subject at random, touching on many phases of the liquor problem under her own observation. The word "hotel," she said did not mean anything any more than that a polite or genteel way of running a saloon. She asked New Albany people how many saloons they are able to support, and the reply came "two." She said "Remember that you are supporting them that they are giving you nothing in return but debauched homes, neglected wives and children." She said, "I wish I had arrived in time to have found out what you people don't like to hear about at this place, for I always make it a point to talk direct to the people about the very things that they don't want me to." She said we not only needed a more awakened conscience in the men but among the women also (great applause.) She paid high tribute to Carrie Nation by saying that she was not at all like the press had pictured her. That Mrs. Nation had been the means of saving the Kansas prohibitary law. She had been in jail 27 times and had not broken a law. Pick up a paper any day and you will see terrible crimes going on all the time, although its smoothed over considerably, the papers realizing, especially those who advocate whisky that its best not to give full particulars of the crime. When she had finished the great majority were in tears and there was the hush of a funeral, not even did the crowd think of applauding.

Friday the day was full of grand things from many workers. Prof. D. Hughes let out the pupils in his room at 3 o'clock to attend the meeting. Friday evening a grand gold medal contest was held by eight young ladies of Bradford county, interspersed with music. Miss Estep of East Troy, carried home the medals. Receipts of contest $25.

The New Albany union extends thanks to all who in any way contributed to the success of the convention, and feel well paid for the effort made to bring such a feast of good things to the New Albany people.

The following is a brief report of the resolutions passed by the convention:

The Bradford County Women's Christian Temperance Union in annual convention assembled, gratefully acknowledges the guiding hand of God in all its history, especially thanking Him for the growth of public sentiment against the saloon, the courtesy shown by the county papers, and the desire of the voting population of our county to break away from bossism and corrupt party rule.

Resolved, That recognizing that alcohol is a poison the union uncompromisingly stands for total abstinence.

Resolved, That the union still holds its adherence to the principle of the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor in state and nation, and hereby expresses its high appreciation of those voters who through their ballots prove their loyalty to prohibitory law and its enforcement.

Seeing the great peril of children and the need of more systematic work for temperance in Sunday schools, and against narcotics and for purity and Lord's day observance, resolved that the union makes a greater effort to interest leaders of children's organizations, mission bands and the like in special lessons on these subjects.

Resolved, That the union reaffirms its belief in the single standard of purity for men and women, and that it protests against demoralizing street fairs and carnivals and indecent shows allowed at the county fair.

Resolved, That we shall continue to educate and agitate for equal suffrage until our nation carries out in principle what it promises in theory.

Resolved, That we protest against the fraudulent patent medicine advertising now being done in the press. Also the objectionable advertisements and pictures posted in public places.

Resolved, That we desire to express our appreciation of the work done by our president, Mrs. Sylva B. Norrish, and hope and pray she may be spared to fill the position many years.

THE FARMER'S VACATION.

The Farmer, Says J. W. Ingham, Needs a Vacation.

J. W. Ingham of Sugar Run, has an interesting article in the Wilkes-Barre Record on "Farmer's Vacations." He contends that the tiller of the soil has need of a yearly rest as much as the professional man. He writes entertainingly on the subject, and says in part as follows:

"In my judgment no class of people need a vacation to promote their health and happiness more than farmers and their wives. Their occupation necessarily confines them very closely to the farm. They wrok more hours than any other class and no matter how many labor saving machines they have, much of their labor is severe, and of a nature that taxes the physical strength.

"They live in a great measure isolated from the world; have too little congenial society; their minds become depressed and starved, from inaction and sociability with t heir neighbors, who generally live at a distance. The grange has helped matters some, rural delivery and the telephone are expected to do more ;but farmers and their families, the same as other people, will always need once a year the stimulus of a journey from home in which they can behold new scenes, new faces, new things and new employments. As the bow which is kept constantly bent loses its elasticity, and cannot hurl the arrow with full force, so the minds of men when kept constantly in the same groove, forced constantly to contemplate the same things and view the same sights, lose their elasticity, their versatility and sometimes their hopefulness, cheerfulness and good nature.

"The oyster in its shell is satisfied to crawl about its native bed of mud in which it is placed, but mankind are constituted on a different plan, and must have a larger field of action, and higher aims to serve the purpose for which they were intended. Farmers can best take their vacation immediately after harvest or after wheat sowing.

"John Gould tells of a dairyman who in order to take his vacation drove his cows to his neighbor's farm to be milked for the milk, during his absence. That was an excellent arrangement, which might be followed to advantage by others. The two dairymen could take turn about. After dairyman A had returned he could milk dairyman B's cows while B was off on his pilgrimage of pleasure."

"Sugar Run, Pa."

Only a Musunderstanding.

Samuel Melvin and Harvey Place of Falls township in Wyoming county, have been busy for some time past suing each other. But now they have ceased hostilities all alnog the legal line and everything is lovely. Some weeks ago Melvin brought suit against Place after a dispute over a land deal and secured judgment. Later he sued Place for alineation of his wife's affections. Then he sued his wife for divorce. Place followed by suing Melvin for slander. Now that peace is declared the two men say the whole controversy grew out of a misapprehension of the facts in the land deal and other misunderstandings which followed.

The New "Combination Closet-shelf" on the

is the most important range improvement brought out in a number of years. Designed especially for The Andes Range, and, patents having been applied for, it is found on no other range.

Every woman knows how plenty of shelf room on a range saves her steps. This is used with the door closed, as a warming closet. By pushing the door up out of the way, it provides a lot of extra shelf room in addition to the regular T shelf and high shelf.

The door of the "Combination Closet-shelf" is arranged somewhat like the cover of a roll-top desk, so that when not needed the door is out of sight and out of the way.

Other important features of this range are plain design, saving constant cleaning, extra large oven, removable grate and fire-box, big, deep ash-pan, large broiler door, a reliable oven thermometer and removable nickel on top and hearth.

All castings used in every style of Andes stoves are of new iron, smooth and heavy and of best quality.

A call at our store will give you a better idea of the superiority of this range. Let us show you.

Buyers read the Reporter-Journal.

A Square Deal

Is assured you when you buy Dr. Pierce's family medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formulas are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests and while potent to cure are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate women and children. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. A much better agent is used both for extracting and preserving the medicinal principles used in them, viz.—pure triple-refined glycerine. This agent possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of its own, being a most valuable antiseptic and antiferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heart-burn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-on coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.

Reporter-Journal Patterns From the Latest NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For a Small Bishop Dress Designed by Martha Dean—No. 4057.

Among the many designs for children's frocks none is more comfortable and becoming than the bishop dress, and, we may add, none is so easily made. There are only the seams at each side which join the front and back and those that join the sleeves to the body. These latter extend to the neck edge, where the dress and sleeve are gathered to a narrow neckband or finished with a narrow frill of lace. Another suggestion is to hemstitch the lower edge and finish the sleeves and neck with tiny hemstitched frills. Nainsook, lawn, dimity or a flouncing would develop this little dress charmingly. The medium size demands two and one-eighth yards of thirty-six inch goods. No. 4057, sizes, 6 months to 6 years.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 10 cents to this office, give number of this pattern, No. 4057, and state size desired. It will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

Pattern For a Simple Tucked Dress Designed by Martha Dean—No. 4796.

If the little maid has a love for constant activity she goes through her gowns very quickly. This means a constant replenishing of the wardrobe, and if her mother be economical she fashions the little gowns at home. Patterns which are attractive and yet simple to make are much sought, and here is one which answers every requirement. The blouse and skirt are all in one, being belted in long waisted manner. The three tucks on either side of the front and back give a broadening effect which is very becoming. These are stitched to below the waist line and increase the fullness of the skirt. This little gown is excellent for school or everyday wear developed in serge, challis or mohair. In the medium size the pattern calls for three and a quarter yards of thirty-six inch material. No. 4796, sizes, 4 to 10 years.

Mrs. W. B. Dean of Wyalusing, who went to Buffalo to visit her sister, Mrs. G. S. Ackley, is in the German Deaconess hospital in that city with the probability of having to undergo a dangerous surgical operation. On Sunday her husband received a telegram from Mrs. Ackley stating that she had been sent to the hospital and that an operation was necessary but apparently the danger was so great that the authorities would await his directions in the case. Mr. Dean took the first train for Buffalo and doubtless upon his arrival the operation will be performed. The sickness was stated as blood clot in one of her legs.—Rocket.

Priest Scores Immoral Shows.

Rev. Father McAndrew, pastor of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church of Wilkes-Barre, severely scored the management of the county fair for permitting immoral shows on the ground. He said they are a disgrace and an insult to Christian community and the law officers of the county should proceed against those responsible for the bringing of so much filth into the city.

It was a famous fishing party that invaded the haunts of the finny tribes of the Susquehanna Thursday, and the campaign was conducted from Standing Stone to Homets Ferry. No less than 72 beauties, yellow and black bass were captured, the largest prize falling to Superintendent Kinney.

The party included Division Superintendent C. W. Kinney, Division Engineer Jesse June, C. J. Arnold, C. P. O'Neil, trainmaster, Dr. LaPlant, Supervisor John Nash, all of Sayre, and Supervisor W. H. Kane of Towanda. The party returned that evening.

IT'S RIGHT, SAYS THE JUDGE.

A Much-Ridiculed Verdict Sustained by Pennsylvania Jurist.

From the bench at Franklin, Pa., on Wednesday, Judge Criswell defended the much-laughed-at verdict of "not guilty, but pay the costs." He said such a verdict was proper in cases where a defendant's guilt was not proven, but where he had been found to be at fault. "This has been called 'the Venago county verdict,'" said the court, "but it is just as much the verdict of any other county. It is based on the general law of the state and persons who criticise it show ignorance of the law."

Grieved for Brother, Killed Himself.

On Sept. 5 Peter Yoos of Scranton, killed himself with a revolver. Grief over the drowning of his brother in Harvey's Lake ten days ago is thought to have been the cause of the act. Yoos was the proprietor a large tinning and sheet metal working shop and was a prosperous business man. He had no domestic troubles, but had been despondent ever since the drowning of his deaf mute brother. He opened the shop as usual Wednesday morning and seemed to be in good spirits, but later he went to a cafe and shot himself through brain. He was 40 years old.

ROBINSON—MITCHELL BRILLIANT WEDDING.

Well Known Young People of Troy United in Church Ceremony.

The Presbyterian church in Troy was the scene Wednesday evening Sept. 5 of a brilliant wedding in which were united Miss Jennie Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Robinson, and Benjamin Bentley Mitchell. The event was attended by a large number of guests from surrounding towns, and was the social climax of the Summer season in Troy.

The bridal party entered the church at 8 o'clock, to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, played by Miss Charlotte Paine, who had previously rendered a fine program of wedding music on the church organ. Three hundred guests were assembled when the bridal party entered the beautiful edifice, the interior of which had been handsomely trimmed with floral decorations.

First came the ushers, Messrs. Herbert D. Holcombe, cousin of the groom,, James Baldwin, nephew of the bride, Percy King and Frederick Van Dyne, then the bridesmaids, Miss Eloise Mitchell, sister of the groom, and Miss Ethel Hovey, wearing gowns of white point de esprit and carrying maidenhair ferns, and Miss Jeanette Kenyon and Miss Rebecca Blackwell, in gowns of green point de esprit and carry bouquets of the same, followed by the little flower girl, Winifred Pomeroy, in a frock of white dotted Swiss and carrying white asters tied with yellow ribbons. Her escort was the little ring bearer, Robinson Pierce, the nephew of the bride. Next came the maid of honor, Miss Ruth Peck, attired in a beautiful robe of white point de esprit and carrying yellow roses, and finally the bride, leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a superb Princess gown of white chiffon cloth over taffeta in train, with Dutchess lace bertha and long tulle veil caught with orange blossoms, her only ornament being a brooch of sapphires, diamonds and pearls, the gift of the groom. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Ralph A. Burr, and the Rev. Edward P. Morse, who performed the impressive ceremony, using the new Presbyterian ring service. Miss Mitchell charmingly sang "O, Perfect Love." The party left the church to Mendelssohn's wedding march. A reception followed the ceremony, given at the home of the bride's parents.

Both young people are prominent in Troy society. The bride is an attractive girl and is much beloved by her many friends. The groom, who is the only son of the late Senator Mitchell and grandson of the late Samuel W. Pomeroy, is a prominent young business man. The out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Merton Baldwin and daughter Grace, of Wellsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Woodford May and son Burt, Bentley Creek; Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Robinson, Athens; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Peck, Joseph Hobinson and Miss Sade Post, Elmira; Miss Blanche Van Buskirk, Wellsburg; Miss Rebecca Blackwell, Towanda; Harry Harkness, Binghamton; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stacey, Athens; Fred Bevans and James Baldwin, Wellsburg; Miss Mary Davison, New York; Mrs. G. A. Lamkin, Athens.

ADDRESS ON MORMONS.

Volney S. Peet, Former Towanda Man Speaks in Mantua Hall.

The address made by Volney S. Peet, on Utah and the Mormons was listened to with great interest by those who attended on Tuesday evening in Mantua hall. Mr. Peet, who formerly lived here, but who is now a resident of Utah, is traveling in the East in the interest of Utah business men, who are taking this method of trying to overcome the prejudice existing against the Mormons and their country, much of which, declared Mr. Peet last evening, sas been created through false impressions and misinformation as to existing conditions there.

"Polygamy has been dead in Utah for 16 years, and at its most prosperous period there was less than 4 per cent. of the population in polygamy," said the speaker, and he offered a reward for every case of plural marriage since 190. Utah's mountains abound in all the minerals known to geologists, except tin. The mining output in 1905 was $26,000,000; 89 per cent. of the people are free from debt and 90 per cent. own the farm they live on. The farmers are among the most prosperous of any state in the union and are able to get the top price for their always abundant crops, and the climate is ideal.

Mr. Peet has spoken in Scranton and Carbondale, and will go from here to New York city, where he is booked for several lectures this month.

DISQUIETING RUMORS

Continue to Disturb Athens Since Recent Italian Riots.

Disquieting reports and ugly rumors continue to emanate from the extensive Italian quarters at Athens. Following the rumor, started late last week, that Chief of Police R. J. Mulligan was to be given fatal foul play, comes a report of mysterious gun play about the streets of Athens on Sunday night and early Monday morning. Several of the Italians who were ejected from the dwellings in North street claim to have paid rent in advance and threaten trouble if not allowed to return. C. W. Mitchell, the man who succeeded C. E. Messenger, the murdered night fireman at the Athens Bridge works, was shot at with a revolver by an unknown assailant Sunday night.

Tony Dabberino, an Italian special officer has notified the Ialian legation at Washington of the treatment accorded his countrymen and should any more serious outbreaks occur there is a possibility of state troops being ordered upon the scene.

Sues for $15,000.

An action was begun in court at Scranton on Saturday morning by Charles Spathelf, to recover $10,000 damages from the Scranton Garage and Motor Car company. His mother, Christina Spathelf, also started suit for $5,000 damages for herself. On the night of July 6 Charles Spathelf, aged 12, and Augus Spathelf, aged 10, were run down by an automobile driven by John Fisher, manager of the garage. The accident resulted in the death of Augustus and terrible injuries to the brother. The latter sues to recover damages for his own injuries and the mother seeks damages for the death of her son and the loss of his services. The whole matter hinges on a question of agency. The complainants must prove that. Fisher was acting in his capacity as general manager of the company at the time of the accident. The defense of the company will be that he was acting as an individual and that therefore they are not liable for damages.

COMMISSIONERS WILL HEAT COUNTY BUILDINGS.

John E. Dobbins of Troy, Puts in Boilers—Will Be Ready Oct. 10.

For several years past the Bradford county court house and jail have been heated by city heat, that is, from the plant of the Towanda Illuminating company. The board of county commissioners has decided to make a change and hereafter will heat the two buildings from its own plants. A contract has been made with John E. Dobbins of Troy, who will make whatever changes are necessary and furnish the necessary apparatus. For the court house twin boilers, each of the capacity of 4,200 feet, will be installed in the basement of the building now occupied by the Bradford County Historical society, and will be connected with the system of pipes and radiators now in the building. At the county jail one boiler will be installed and similar connection made. The twin boilers for use at the court house will be so arranged that both, or either one separately may be used. Cast iron sectional boilers will be furnished, of the Carton steam boiler make. The contract was made on Sept. 4 and all work will be completed by Oct. 10. Work will be begun at once. The price paid the Electric Light company for heating the two buildings has been $1,950 per year.

Lake Dynamited.

An act which was one of the most wanton pieces of vandalism ever perpetrated was committed at Ford Lake, near Shultzville Wednesday night of this week, when the lake was dynamited and hundreds of fish killed. The lake was the property of William Ford of Scranton, and only two years ago it had been thoroughly stocked with trout. Until this season no fishing was permitted, but since then a number of business men have visited it and made fine catches. Indignation is rife among the sportsmen of Scranton, and a thorough search will be made for the criminals.
